

Lanvin has a new, experienced creative director

Business of Fashion reports that French luxury fashion house Lanvin has appointed Bruno Sialelli as its creative director.

Sialelli replaces Olivier Lapidus, who exited in March, less than a year after his appointment.

He joins Lanvin from Loewe, where he worked under Jonathan Anderson as the menswear design director.

Read more on this story here.

For more, visit: <https://www.bizcommunity.com>