2017 PRISA National Conference – “Leading through innovative communication” is set out to convene futurists, business leaders and communication professionals to discuss key issues surrounding innovation, communication and leadership. The conference will be held on 4-5 May 2017, at the Indaba Hotel, Fourways, Sandton, Gauteng.

The must-attend two-day conference will attract a broad spectrum of professionals and will also give them relevant insight on leading through innovative communication within a business in a modern society.

PRISA vows to not only provide a platform to discuss new technologies but to also provide incubation area for innovative approaches to leadership and communication. PRISA intends to showcase the most influential and thought-provoking thinkers that will change the landscape in business communication.

Pertinent topics include:

- Futuristic communication trends that will change your outlook on your company
- Leadership - A shift to a more collaborative approach
- How must the public relations industry change to meet the future?

PRISA will also be celebrating its 60th anniversary with a gala dinner. PRISA will be sharing their nostalgic moments in the journey of public relations. As part of this celebration, the first 20 people to register will receive a complimentary dinner for a partner. This will be a chance to network with industry icons about the latest trends.
