"Netflix and drive" might become a thing now that Elon Musk revealed upcoming support for the streaming service and YouTube on his Tesla vehicles.

"Ability to stream YouTube & Netflix when car is stopped coming to your Tesla soon!" Musk tweeted on Saturday.

“ Ability to stream YouTube & Netflix when car is stopped coming to your Tesla soon! Has an amazingly immersive, cinematic feel due to the comfy seats & surround sound audio.— e^👉👉👉👉 (@elonmusk) July 27, 2019 ”

Though this may seem like a slightly dangerous distraction, Musk further tweet that the feature will be enabled once “full self-driving is approved by regulators”.

“ When full self-driving is approved by regulators, we will enable video while moving— e^👉👉👉👉 (@elonmusk) July 27, 2019 ”

Soon people will have the luxury of watching their favourite content while their Teslas drive them around.
