

loveLife appoints new deputy CEO

Dr Lebo Maroo has been appointed as the new deputy CEO of loveLife, South Africa's leading national youth leadership development organisation. Dr Maroo's role will include collaborating with the CEO to design, refine and implement loveLife's strategic plan.

Her role also involves providing strategic vision and overall leadership for the organisation's operations and business support services and ensuring organisational sustainability and operational efficiencies, among other responsibilities.

For more, visit: <https://www.bizcommunity.com>