

Nicole Cupido shares her view on education and mental health

This Youth Month, together with Pride Factor, young and confident 'thought leaders' share what they think the business community can do better to address the needs of the youth through a series of videos.

With an interest in education, Nicole Cupido is currently unemployed and lives in Ceres in the Western Cape.

In this video, she shares her perception of the education system in South Africa and the impact it has on the mental health of the youth.
